Message from Attorney General

Office of the Attorney General has been conducting various programs for professional development of Government Attorneys and institutional reform. The recent approach, for professional development in Office of the Attorney General, is subject matter of Specialization. In order to establish Office of the Attorney General as a professional, effective and trustworthy institution to promote the scenario that advances rule of law, qualified government attorneys are required. Among these various approaches, specialization process is the one which promotes the capacity development of attorneys. It is also a program projected by Second Five Year Strategic Plan of Office of the Attorney General. The specialization training will provide specialized knowledge for conceptual clarity and practices including case law on the related subject. This training will train for comparative studies of good practices adopted by various countries. It will help for reasonable analysis of judicial interpretations and established precedents. This training expects to help Attorneys to effectively administer pleading, defending, case management and other work performances.

The globalization influences public administration of the nation. Eventually, it affects law and Justice Sector too. New laws are being promulgated. New natures of disputes are arising during Judicial Practices. In the private sectors, practitioners have started a trend of specific discipline. In alignment with it, for defending and representing state party, government attorneys had to have specific specialization trainings for their competency. It is felt that the institutional necessity which was required has been fulfilled. Trainings conducted so far have indicated that these trainings will give substantial results in institutional reforms.

The Government Attorneys are not merely a civil servant but also a professional. Professionalism incorporates Independence and Immunity. We need Knowledgeable, skillful and competent Government Attorneys in work performance. In order to exercise Professional Independence, fearlessness in work performance is equally required. The key aspect of acquiring this fearlessness is competency on the subject matter. This training of specialization assures to enhance the professional competency of Government Attorneys and it certainly provides special assistance in their private lives. Constant study, research and professional integrity are needed for its continuity.

The Office of the Attorney General has set forth criteria for conducting process of specialization objectively. Government Attorneys specialization training has been initiated on the basis of work experience, higher educational degree in law, involvement in writing research articles and specialized training. It is also an attempt for intellectual discourse.

This publication, till date, includes specialization of nine different subjects namely Constitutional Law, Organized Crime Prevention Law, Tax and Revenue Law, Banking and Commercial Law, Corruption Prevention Law, Electronic Transaction Crime Prevention Law, Service law, Government and Public Property Protection and Gender and Juvenile Justice. This publication aims to make it easier for the Government Attorneys to select the subject to enter to enroll in specialization process on the basis of their knowledge, skills, experience, interests and institutional requirement. I cordially call upon all Government Attorneys to participate in the process of specialization for their professional development. I would also extend my sincere gratitude to all who have been involved during the preparation of this publication.
